

About

Before joining id avocats in October 2023 as a junior associate, Marie Krähenbühl obtained a Bachelor of Law degree at the University of Geneva. She then completed a bilingual Master of Law degree with a specialization in tax and business law at the University of Neuchâtel. During her Master's degree, she went on a Swiss mobility exchange at the University of St-Gallen where she studied international economic law. Interested in exploring white collar crime, she wrote her Master's thesis on the criminal liability of corporate employees under Swiss criminal administrative law.

Alongside her studies, Marie Krähenbühl had the opportunity to work in several law firms and for the University of St. Gallen as a research assistant in the field of new technologies regulation.

She practices in French, English and German.

Experience & Career

- 2023 Junior associate (avocate-stagiaire) at id est avocats
- 2023 Graduate Research and Teaching Assistant at University of Saint Gall
- 2022 Student Research and Teaching Assistant at Université of Saint Gall
- 2021 Legal counsel at the Permanence Juridique of students of Neuchâtel
- 2021 Summer legal trainee at CBWM & Associés (Lausanne)
- 2020 Legal assistant at OBERSON ABELS SA (Lausanne)
- 2020 Summer legal trainee at OBERSON ABELS SA (Lausanne)

Education

- 2023 MLaw, University of Neuchâtel
- 2022 Exchange Semester University of Saint Gall
- 2021 Summer School on financial crime in an International and European perspective Law at Aristotle University of Thessaloniki

Publications & Presentations

Master's Thesis, "The Prosecution of Administrative Offences Committed in the Commercial Activity: Comparative Study of Swiss Administrative Criminal Law and Swiss Criminal Law Regimes applied to Administrative Infractions".