

A dealmaker's instinct. A counsel's eye. A mediator's ear. Focusing on meaningful matters.

About

Michel Jaccard is a partner at id est avocats, a Swiss-based B Corp law firm committed to responsible and sustainable business practices. He has advised on corporate finance and M&A transactions for more than 25 years in Switzerland and internationally, acting for entrepreneurs and owners, venture capital and private equity firms, industrial buyers, and financial sponsors. He also advises investment funds, large corporates, SMEs, and startups on governance, sustainability and ESG matters.

In addition to his corporate practice, Michel advises on innovation and technology projects (including AI, data protection, and cybersecurity) and supports clients in complex business disputes where technology and intellectual property licensing are central, including open source and open access strategies.

Building on his deal and technology background, Michel is available as mediator or mediation counsel in complex disputes at the intersection of technology, venture capital and shareholder relations, such as Technology, IP and data disputes: software development and integration failures, AI vendor and customer disputes, open-source and licensing conflicts, cybersecurity incident allocation, data-sharing and joint R&D breakdowns.

Venture capital and M&A disputes: term-sheet, down-round and liquidation-preference disputes, founder-investor conflicts, earn-out and post-closing disputes, SAFE and convertible-note enforcement.

Shareholder and governance disputes: 50/50 deadlocks, minority protection, shareholders' agreement breaches, board-level conflicts of interest, MBO and family-business succession, mission-lock and impact-governance disputes.

Michel holds a JD and PhD from the University of Lausanne and an LL.M. from Columbia Law School (Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar, Fulbright grantee). He teaches regularly on innovation, technology licensing, digital law, AI, venture capital, impact investing and corporate law at UNIL, UNINE, EPFL, IMD and UNIFR. He is a co-creator of the LISI Impact Term Sheet and a member of the Swiss Corporate Finance Association (SECA) working group on convertible debt documentation.

Panels & accreditations (mediation): CEDR Accredited Mediator (London, 2021); ITDR Mediator, IT and Data Disputes (2019); WIPO List of Neutrals, Geneva (2023); ICC List of Arbitrators (Switzerland). Working languages: French, English, German (passive).

Clients

Michel Jaccard's client base reflects the strength and diversity of the regional innovation ecosystem, with a strong focus on impact and the purpose-driven economy. He counts as clients a broad range of traditional and impact investors, technology-driven companies, including early stage startups and unicorns as well as technology providers in software, platforms, AI, and IT services committed to transformative innovation.

He regularly advises biotech and medtech startups, healthcare providers, and life sciences foundations working on breakthrough therapies and public health solutions. He also acts for top-tier consulting, legal, audit, and HR firms that support the innovation economy.

His portfolio includes numerous corporates, venture capital firms, accelerators, and investment advisors with a growing emphasis on sustainability and responsible investing.

He also works with leading academic and research institutions, cleantech and renewable energy pioneers, and internationally active NGOs and philanthropic foundations — all contributing to a more sustainable, inclusive, and resilient economic future.
